Congressmen Hope To Get Restrictions Lifted From Canadian Travel In States

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(AP)—A conference will be held early next week with a state department representative in an effort to work out a plan to remove Canadian government restrictions against Canadian citizens travelling in the United States. Representative James Oliver (Rep., Maine), said today.

Special Bonus To Be Paid On Alberta Goods

Effective as from April 1, a special bonus of two per cent in addition to the five per cent bonus previously announced on Alberta trade-marked goods will be paid on all purchases of other goods with treasury vouchers, it was announced Saturday by Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer.

The special two per cent bonus on the purchase of other goods with transfer vouchers will apply on monthly purchases up to $100, said Mr. Low. "It is necessary to limit it in this manner to prevent abuses and insure that bona fide purchases only benefit the bonus."

The action by the government is as a result of certain "black" actions by some wholesalers, who have declined to co-operate with the government in its interim program and operation of the "barrier" system for the treasury branches.

Nine Prisoners Are Recaptured Following 'Break' At East Camp

Officials Are Confident Escaped Germans Will Not Be Able To Elude Patrols In Rugged Bush Country

PORT ARTHUR, April 19.—(CP)—A vast manhunt by police, soldiers and civilians was spurred today by the capture of nine of the 28 German prisoners of war who tunneled their way out of a northwestern Ontario internment camp during the night.

Nineteen of the escapees remained in the rugged bush country where the camp is located, but officials expressed belief they could not get far without running into patrols spread swiftly around the countryside following the discovery of the break at one o'clock this morning.

At least one of the nine captured were back in the camp, described by an official at Ottawa as "the most isolated" in Canada, and the others were being escorted in under heavy guard.

No details were available on the capture.

"SUPER GUARD" PLANNED
The break occurred a few hours before extra guards were to have been placed around every internment camp in the country. What officials described as a "super guard" was to have been put on duty at the camp tomorrow to watch against any Nazi escapes in view of Hitler's 52nd birthday Sunday.

With regard to the method of escape, it was known that the men built a tunnel through which they made their way to the outside—an outside thing stipulated by the immediate vicinity, densely wooded and liberally dotted with swamps, streams, lakes and huge rocks.

Members of the tunnel raised the alarm that sent police from all over the district, civilians from nearby towns and soldiers from the lakehead to the scene to participate in the great manhunt.

It was evident that the prisoners had waited after making the break since they were captured west of the camp than those who were caught.

From Col. H. E. Starnes, director of internment operations, came the instructions to "use any force necessary" to capture the Germans if they are encountered. He said the men are all non-communists and none of the Nazi air force captured during raids on Britain and brought to Canada.

Col. Starnes was in Toronto on Saturday.

Report Nazis Seek Revolt In Near East

Anti-British Propaganda Is Being Spread To Spur Revolution

By DANA SCHMIDT
ISTANBUL, Turkey, April 18.—(UP)—United States consuls in Turkey are advising Americans not to travel through Iraq in view of disturbed conditions since the recent government overthrow, it was learned today.

Americans are being urged to avoid Iraq entirely and to limit travel to Iraq to the Far East.

They want to go to the Far East to fly from Lydda, Palestine, or to take ship at Port Said.

The warning came from Franz Von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, left Istanbul by airplane to report to his government, said reports that a network of Nazi agents was spreading revolutionary and anti-British propaganda throughout Iraq, Iran, Syria, Palestine and Transjordan.

It was reported that the German agents were smuggling money and arms to disorient Arab chieftains in preparation for a German drive in the Middle East.

What diplomats called a great fifth column movement was being worked closely by British authorities in Iraq, Iran, Syria, Palestine and Transjordan.

It was reported that the German agents were smuggling money and arms to disorient Arab chieftains in preparation for a German drive in the Middle East.

Germany's Young 'Blitzmen' Stream Like Ants Up Serbia Pass, Every One To His Death

In the following dispatch Richard D. McMillan, British Times Press war correspondent with the British forces in Greece, gives more details of the battle he reported on recently yesterday. The following was written before yesterday's dispatch but apparently held up longer by the Athens censors.—EDITOR.

By RICHARD D. McMILLAN
WITH THE BRITISH IMPERIAL ARMY AT THE GREEK FRONT, (Via Athens), April 18. (Delayed)—(BUP)—Up the Serbo-Pass, guarding the western slopes of Mount Olympus, Germany's young "blitzmen" have streamed like ants, hour after hour in an endless line, every one to his death.

Austrian machine-guns have moved them down until the Germans themselves have fallen, exhausted.

Occasionally German tanks have thundered up from the valley, over the heads of the dead, to be picked off by one or two British anti-tank guns mounting the ridges or by British tanks firing severely from below.

Heavy Assaults By Infantry, Armored Units Are Repulsed

Brilliant Resistance and Mountainous Country Puts Mechanized Warfare Of Germans In Reverse

ATHENS, Greece, April 19.—(AP)—Britain's Imperial forces in Greece, declaring their front nowhere had been penetrated, announced today that they had repulsed a heavy Nazi attack by armored formations and masses of infantry with "severe" losses.

"Despite all efforts, our front nowhere has been penetrated," said a communiqué.

It added that many prisoners had been taken.

The Imperial troops were reported in action along the entire front as waves of German infantry tried vainly to force a way up the mountain girding the passes in the face of murderous fire.

STREWN WITH DEAD
Observers said the slopes were strewn with dead and wounded Nazis.

The mountainous country and stout resistance have put Nazi mechanized warfare in reverse, observers said.

Instead of the German panzer columns breaking through to clear the roads for the infantry, Hitler's legions now must fight their way on foot ahead of the tanks, it was said.

King George II worked to shape a new government—possibly even a royal cabinet—on the change occasioned by the death of Premier Alexander Kostas, word from the north indicated fighting had intensified along the entire de facto line.

British army headquarters in Athens declared repulsed Nazi attacks by armored formations and said the attacks failed to penetrate the line at a single point.

"The Germans claimed they had broken the Swastika on Mt. Olympus. British-held eastern anchor of the line, and that the bombed."

Major And Minor Notes

By John Oliver

THERE was "fire music" over the radio a few days ago—more dramatic in tone, more opening and more shattering than any written ever by the great Richard Wagner for his incomparable music drama. It was fire music, composed, produced, staged, rehearsed and delivered by the Royal Air Force. Showers of high explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped on Berlin's 200 foot wide central avenue, Unter den Linden or "Under the Lime Trees." Among the flames blazed was the Royal Opera House, where Hitler has listened to many occasions. By a strange coincidence Wagner's Parsifal was advertised for performance during the week of the raid. This opera house was JOHN OLIVER

JOHN OLIVER
Nipper's favorite musician entire and it seems that the to sometimes come home to find in the terrible catastrophe quitting the world, being shot by the great and warlike of Hitler and his Nazi leaders. A further murder of German opera should be destroyed.

At the Corona Hotel Saturday night, the Edmonton Opera Society will give aid to the cause and excitement of rehearsal and will devote itself to merit. The organization will hold its annual bazaar and dance, to officially mark the season, one of the most successful in its history.

But the Society is not resting activity. Naughton Herbert, Naughton Herbert's musical director of old New York, will be given a concert in the form of the benefit of the Edmonton Opera Society, at the Hotel, on Sunday, April 27, commencing about 9 p.m., at 10 p.m. as the singers can assemble after church. Music will be given, including all solo and contralto parts. More attention comes forward from the orchestra to all golden vocal winners of this or past seasons. The orchestra will be under the direction of Naughton Herbert, who will be assisted by the band of Mrs. James B. Carmichael and with a glittering list of soloists, including Norma, Bruneau, Josephine and others. The efforts are in for a new season, the orchestra has been singing to local choruses, to equal the best in Naughton Herbert's career.

While a preliminary survey is being given to next season's activities by the Society, production decisions have not yet been made. Several works are under consideration. As there is ample time for rehearsal, all artists are making a thorough canvass before coming to a conclusion.

Norman Bragge will be the guest artist at Knox United church on Sunday evening, April 14, at 8 p.m. He will sing, Stephen Adams, soprano; The Holy City and Peter de Bono, contralto; in popularity song "I Heard A Faraway Praying." Miss Bragge will be guest soloist at Robertson United.

As the closing of schools for the Easter holidays, extending with the dead-line for entries in the Alberta music festival, and thereby three out of four, plans of many students and teachers regarding entries, it has been decided to extend the date until the schools have settled their business. As the festival has not been set in the meantime, intending competitors should forward their entries so as to be sure of being on time.

Indications are that there will be a new peak attendance in number of entries. At present the total is within striking distance of the top mark and with a few days to go there is reasonable expectation that the previous total will be passed.

A gratifying feature of the entries is the large number who will be coming from outside points. For instance, there will be more than 250 here from Calgary. In addition to many who will be coming "on their own" there will be a vocal group of about 70; a Junior "symphony" of about 70 and the Calgary Native Boys band of about 75. This revived interest in the festival is indicated by the number of groups coming in a good sign. Some classes will be in the field, while others will not.

There are many causes for contemplation and reflection in the life of the entries in the festival. Those who feel that music has gone forward by leaps and bounds—and it has—will find it a great joy to see the number of groups coming in a good sign. Some classes will be in the field, while others will not.

One might view "with alarm" the open piano class, having a large number of entries. This is a festival but at this writing, of course more than 250 groups are coming forward. ## Simmons Ltd. Is Celebrating Golden Jubilee With Displays Putting worldwide Canada to sleep—the sound sleep of real respect—a shore big enough to tax the Empire's largest bedding factory.

For fifty years, now, the Canadian firm that makes up Simmons Ltd. has been playing chamber-music to the ears of the Dominion. The golden jubilee is to be fittingly celebrated, not only in Canada but all around the seven seas, with millions sleep up Simmons products.

Locally, the jubilee will be marked with a special display and offering of Simmons' latest and best, the new living room furniture.

Scientific study of sleeping comfort started back in 1881, when two young Canadians, Macdonnell and Williams, asked their tiny back account and their huge stock of faith and enthusiasm into a little factory in downtown Montreal. From there Simmons began their first product. But as the years rolled by, they and their associates branched into three mattresses, box springs, brass beds, cots and cots.

GROWTH OF FIRM
The firm became the Alaska Feather and Down Company, then the Alaska Bedding Company. In 1904, part of the Bromley Tent and Awning Company of Calgary, was bought and a factory in Winnipeg was opened. Next year, there was a change with the Ideal Bedding Company of Toronto. Still further expansion of business demanded a Vancouver factory in 1913. Across the border, meanwhile, another big firm was developing the art of making better beds and bedding, creating new equipment for the manufacture. In 1918, both houses decided to merge and Simmons Ltd. was the outcome.

Throughout the fifty years of expanding business Simmons Ltd. is a constant, primary aim of the manufacturer have been to put greater comfort into sleep and give better artistry into bedroom furniture.

FOUNDATION FOR SLEEP
One of the old women woe, heavily sagging bedroppers of the low-and-high springs, the perfect bed for the spring-filled mattress which undulates with every movement of the sleeper. Gone is the pillow, the cedar-filled mattress, stiff as a wooden table, and the place is taken by the new Simmons' sleeping foundation built, not stuffed. Relegated to the realm of memory is the creaky mattress bed, the flimsy bed of curves and rails.

Use, even the ghostly white gauze bed to die at the opening of the rural "twenties, introduced by Simmons of the wood-frame metal bed soon ousted all other concepts that so often made the bedroom truly a chamber of horrors.

Bed and bedding have had their faces lifted, and they are healthier. Simmons have sponsored certified teachers for pillows, pure and carefully selected material for mattresses, and engaged in the task of replacing the drab stuff of other years. And they have succeeded in the development of dual purpose furniture, each by day, bed by night.

LOVAL WORKERS
All this success has been achieved only through the collaboration of loyal workers and agents. The firm is fortunate in possessing an organization with a high proportion of long-service employees, steeped in the Simmons tradition. Of the 520 employees on the payroll in 1940, 320 have been with the firm for twenty years or more and their term of service runs as high as 47 years. So with agents, firm is fortunate in possessing an organization with a high proportion of long-service employees, steeped in the Simmons tradition.

Routine Procedure

Berlin got the reply in kind Thursday night. While the communique issued at London is, as usual, notable for brevity rather than clearness, enough is said to make certain the city was badly mauled by the R.A.F. bombers—probably as badly mauled as London was the night before. Even the rigidly censored Berlin reports say what amounts to an admission of this. Hundreds of tons of Britain's new super-explosives were not dumped there without doing damage, material and psychological.

The latter is probably more dreaded by the Nazi chiefs than the former. Goering told Berliners they were relatively safe behind the elaborate defence system he had built; they know now that he is not at all safe. They can also conjecture what life for them will be like when they are bombed as often and as severely as London; and that will be the more shocking because of their supposed immunity.

The words of Sir Herbert Morrison, British minister of home security, will give little comfort to Berliners, if they are allowed to read his speech. He said: "We made no hysterical noise about reprisals. We have our plans. They will be carried out. Berlin will be bombed according to plan. Let Hitler and his generals be worried as much right now as Berlin as he has to be."

That is something Berlin people will think about as they clear away the debris, bury their dead, gather up the wounded, and pack their blankets into the dug-outs they are digging for themselves. Their future, their time in future. Their future under that kind of "war" will be coming their way, not only in the form of a spasmodic burst of successful fury, but according to plans.

Where Doesn't Matter

That the Greeks would have to withdraw their forces from Albania was fairly certain once the Nazi drive to capture the Balkans was in progress. And that the fury of the attack has compelled a straightening of the Greek-Greek line by a sixty mile retirement in the north is not surprising, however regrettable.

For this measure of success the enemy has paid a fearful price in men and material and in equipment. That he does not care how many Germans he kills as long as he has enough left to keep his ranks, and his fanatical followers seem equally ready to die at his bidding. That, where the fighting is going on, the consideration the Allies must keep in mind.

If the defence line has to be further shortened by withdrawal from the Greek front, this would almost certainly be necessary however many men the Allies might have on the ground. When the enemy keeps on advancing with fanatical determination, it is doubtfully possible to stop him on any given line, however naturally strong and however many the Allies have. The attackers may be killed in heaps, but if thousands more keep pushing ahead in tank and truck, a periodic retirement to fresh fighting ground is almost inevitable for the defence forces.

This is not a war of attrition, in which victory would be won by the sheer fact that an attack by an enemy directed with humane regard to the loss of life. It is, by order of the Führer, a war of attrition of the troops, a war in which nothing counts but the number of German soldiers killed or disabled or captured, and the amount of German materiel destroyed.

Young Germans are being sent to the shambles like sheep, and apparently they go willingly. However, the German government in Germany is aware of the situation. The Allies are being sent to the shambles like sheep, and apparently they go willingly. However, the German government in Germany is aware of the situation. The Allies are being sent to the shambles like sheep, and apparently they go willingly. However, the German government in Germany is aware of the situation.

Wartime Strikes!

Eleven thousand men have gone on strike in three of the eastern provinces. As a result, coal mines in Cape Breton are not producing a shipload of coal. In Nova Scotia, three Quebec and New Brunswick factories have suspended operations, and the ships of five coastwise vessels are being delayed. The Great Lakes are tied up. It was reported last night that the Halifax plant will reopen—300 of the men are employed there.

A strike in any Allied country is a justifying concern is a blow to the nation's war effort. Some of the establishments that put out of business are engaged in the production of things urgently needed to maintain our fighting forces or to keep the stream of supplies flowing to the front. The other persons serve vital to munitions-output or to the maintenance of the economic life of the country. The result is a curtailment, not of luxury, but of necessities.

Against the background of the news from Britain, the Balkans and Egypt, the steady outflow of industrial life does not make a pleasant picture. It suggests a failure in the quarter or another to see the fact that Canada and the other Allied countries are at this time facing the gravest effects of the war yet encountered. There is even a suggestion that since passage of the War Measures Act, some Canadians have gathered an impression that it is less important than before to keep the wheels turning and to keep the ships moving in the harbours. To the time the United States became the "arsenal" there were practically no strikes in Canada.

Where the strike is in a business that is not a matter for off-hand judgment.

From The News

By Harold L. Weir

Great Britain normally assumes that if the Axis bombs Athens or Cairo she will begin the systematic destruction of Rome from the air.

The British have shown what they can do in Berlin. It is extremely likely that all the weight of their authority and Italian public opinion will be thrown—how it will be worth—against further Axis bombings of allied cities.

It is probable that by threatening Rome, the British have adopted the best method of saving Rome.

This is from the news: "The situation in Greece is serious, and the British-Greek line has not been pierced. British troops, on one hand, have not yet got the better of the Germans whenever they met on equal terms."

Then there is another despatch quoted in great detail by a British mechanized unit fighting in Greece: "Tank for tank, we are better than the Germans. But numerically, they have the upper hand. They are equipped with motorized infantry in support."

These two despatches prove one fact incontrovertibly—that German successes are based entirely on numerical superiority.

Why have the Germans got that numerical superiority? The population of Greece, including Albania, is 13,735,281 according to the census of 1939.

The population of the British Empire is 504,128,290.

It is true that a considerable part of the 504,128,290 British subjects consists of aboriginals. But even so, the civilized population of the British Empire is infinitely greater than that of Germany. And even aboriginals can be trained to fight.

It is said that Germany has been preparing for war since 1933 and her men are trained for combat on a large scale.

The British Empire has actually been at war for twenty months. And if young men cannot acquire the spirit and technique of the war in twenty months, there must be something wrong with their heads.

Something is gravely wrong somewhere when the 504,128,290 people can't beat the 13,735,281 Germans.

It should be the business of every intelligent person in Canada to discover just what that trouble is.

It is reported that Marshal Petain and his Vichy colleagues are planning to cancel the "war responsibility" trials of Edouard Daladier, Paul Reynaud, General Gamelin and General Weygand.

Instead of coming to trial, these four gentlemen will be exiled from France.

Doubtless many loyal Frenchmen will enter their protest. But the French government is not more glorious nor profitable now than it was in 1940.

With this peculiar action with regard to Daladier, Gamelin and Weygand, the French government is making a statement.

If the Vichy group is acting of its own volition in the matter, this new move is all the more reprehensible. For if these four men are guilty of any misbehavior, they deserve far more than exile. If they are suspected of any misbehavior, they are entitled to a trial.

If they are definitely known to be innocent of any misbehavior, they should be left at full liberty to reside, as Frenchmen, wherever they wish.

It is always possible, of course, that the Vichy group fears to bring these men to trial lest some evidence might be forthcoming which would incriminate some member or members of the group.

If, on the other hand, Vichy is not acting of its own volition in the matter, it must be acting under the direct pressure of the German government.

If the Nazis have taken a hand in the matter, it is a reasonable assumption that they either fear to stir up a French demonstration over the trial of these men or that they fear what these men might disclose.

The Edmonton Bulletin's Guide To Spring

BUILDING and REMODELING

Further Hints On Growing And Cultivation Of Roses In Northern Temperate Climate

WATERING

Should the spring or summer prove dry, it is necessary to water and all newly planted bushes should be watered weekly, but overhead, but around the main stem, preferably in the morning. Never wet the foliage in late evening.

SUCKERING

It will have been noticed by growers of Pinky Rose bushes that the briars upon which they are budded throw very few suckers. However, all other roses will sucker at times, and it is very important to get rid of these suckers. Suckers grow so rapidly as to be a nuisance. In cutting off the sucker growth, do so close to the junction of the root, if allowed to grow it weakens the growth of the true plant. If the sucker growth is not cut off close to the root it will likely throw up a double sucker growth.

PRUNING

All budding roses require to be hard pruned the first spring after planting, cutting them back to two or in case of the stronger varieties three eyes from the base. Make a point of pruning to an even point outward, thus leaving room for expansion. In subsequent years, cut off all weak growth and cut down to 4 or 8 eyes. Do not prune in the fall, April is the time to prune.

When exhibition blooms are required it is advisable to cut back the bushes more severely which will encourage stronger growth.

A good rule to follow when pruning is to cut the weaker the bush the more it should be pruned and by cutting the stronger the bush the less pruning is necessary.

CUTTING BLOOMS

This is an important as pruning and the stems of all blooms should be cut down to within 2 or 4 buds or leaves of the stem from which it is growing. In this way it leaves less buds for that particular stem to develop before producing another bloom. In other words by cutting your blooms on a long stem you will secure another crop of good bloom earlier.

CUTTING BLOOMS FOR EXHIBITION

All exhibition blooms necessarily have to be cut on fairly long stems to have any chance in competition. We have, however, been asked to give an idea as to when to cut blooms for exhibition. Much depends on whether the bloom is to be cut for the show date or too far advanced. If you consider blooms are needed for showing which are rather late in bud, it is advisable to cut them 2 or 4 days before the date of show and insert them in water practically up to the head and keep them in a fairly warm place. This will generally advance the bloom. It comes where the bud is likely to be too early or a becoming too far advanced for the day of the show—we have known exhibitors to cut their buds a week ahead, to put them in water paper that is the bud and place the stems in cold water and keep in a cool place, and in a week's time the blooms are in a very perfect condition. To be assured of the best exhibition blooms the buds should be cut a couple of days before the show—in the morning, if cut even placed in cold water and kept in a cool place when they will be in perfect shape for the show. But of course, they do not apply to all varieties as some roses bloom early, but as a general rule, exhibition varieties have a large number of petals and the above handling will apply.

THE ALCOFF introduces a new series of CANADIAN HOMES

Each home in this series has been critically approved by The Bulletin from houses SPECIALLY DESIGNED for the families of this city who want to own and live in new and modern homes. It features two bedrooms, a large living room, convenient kitchen, breakfast nook and bathroom, a large porch and garage, with a large modern basement.

GENERAL CARE OF ROSE BUSHES

To be assured of complete success follow instructions on watering, manuring and pruning. We should mention, however, the after planting, some bushes get slowly started, show leaves and then in the course of a week or so the whole bush gradually dies back. This is generally caused by the bush not being firmly packed with soil around the roots. This trouble is particularly noticed in young when strong winds occur soon after your bushes are planted. While the bushes may have been properly planted, the roots having been tramped and packed with earth, the strong winds gradually loosen the bushes in the soil. We would recommend a good tramping around all the bushes, say every two or three weeks after planting until well established. Of course, leaving the top two inches of soil loose.

St. Paul's Suffers Second Bombing In Recent Air Attack

LONDON, April 18.—(CP)—St. Paul's cathedral suffered its second bombing during a recent air raid. One bomb whistled through the towering dome of the famous building, piercing the floor of the main auditorium and exploded in the crypt.

Only a comparative pinpoint of a hole was left in the dome but the main floor, a gaudy chandelier and the crypt under it was a mass of broken stone.

Arthur Chapman wrote the poem, "Ode Where the West Begins," in 10 minutes.

Roosevelt Refuses Answer Questions On East War Plans

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(BUP)—President Roosevelt refused to answer any questions about joint British-American-Australian and East Indian war plans in the Pacific. Days after a series of conferences were held in Hawaii between democratic military leaders—Mr. Roosevelt still says he hasn't any information on it.

He refuses, too, to confirm or deny reports that an important naval and political conference is underway at Singapore.

NEWSY NATURE NOTES

By STUART L. THOMPSON

THE LITTLE HUNTING OF THE BEAR

Spring in the bird world without the song sparrows is unthinkable. As early as mid-March this cheerful little songster has begun to sing from the south and soon announces his presence. He is not only cheerful, there is not in his whole "make-up," a single feather which can be called bright. Yet, as "butterfly" among the browns and greys, with their varying shades, blended and woven together in his somewhat somber plumage, that his whole idea is really attractive.

He has not a pretentious song. There is nothing in the music of its little song that is really rich, the rich note of the gay-colored goldfinch or the wild, bubbling enthusiasm of the blue jay. The song of the sparrow is the song of the bird that is at its best. But in the first of March, when we may at any time have a belated snowstorm, the song of the sparrow is heard, and its bright note speaks of future days when it will be heard.

For those who know the song sparrow and where to look for him, it is no surprise to find that he has really not arrived this spring, but has spent the winter with us. Although many of his sparrow relatives departed with the fall migration, the great bulk of the song sparrow population with them here and there throughout the land. The odd venturesome bird lingered in a secluded woodland corner. And finding shelter in the shrubbery and food in the seeds of the weeds, pinecones, remained with the sparrow and the juncos as companions, eating little for the night of winter.

Stories In Stamps

WAR TAKEN TO THE PHILATELICAL TOOL

Stamp collectors will have plenty of work, reviving albums, when the war is over. Of the 100 million countries of Europe, nine have changed stamp issues, and there is no doubt that they may be more changed in the future.

First to disappear was the Bear which issued stamps under the League of Nations from 1919 to 1920. The city hall of Brest-Litovsk is pictured on the stamp above. Brest-Litovsk issued 154 postage, including overprints, 80 semi-postals, eight airmails and 26 officials.

Austria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Poland followed rapidly. Soviet Russia took over Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. Italy moved into Albania.

Whether Luxembourg will regain independence is doubtful now, with the Grand Duchy in exile, and little probability is only a German district.

Festival Plans Are Announced

Annual C.G.I.T. drama festival will be held at St. Michael's Church hall at 8:15 p.m. on April 18 and 19. It was announced this week. Groups from seven churches will participate.

C.G.I.T. group at St. Andrew's Church will bring their annual banquet on April 16. Mrs. Hickenbotham.

These Are Heroes Who Battle London Fire Bombs

Youth Makes Most Of Easter

Westglensites Use Vacation For Athletics

Scona Students See New Season Work, Socials

By MARY TRAVERS

A DOUBLE blessing on a person who lets his have ten glorious days of holiday in the Spring time! It's the interval when, weary and aching, he sits and looks back on the year's work and the year's play.

This program of specialized leadership training will be conducted from the proposed new office, building to be erected in Chicago, selected qualified young men and women will be given the opportunity to further their knowledge of the Walter League program.

The G.A.P. as the plan is more commonly termed, is a drive by young people's societies of the Methodist, Baptist, and Presbyterian churches to raise money for increased expansion of young people's work in all districts.

While the teaching staff has most of its time taken up with the Alberta Teachers' Association convention, attention have been turning their attention to various matters. Most of the H.Y. Club members attended the All-Canadian H.Y. conference at Regina, Sask.

Other students at the conference included: Mr. Clarence Kuhnke, Miss Norma Schwerman, Rev. V. L. Moore, and Prof. A. Guertel, all of Edmonton.

group at Buchanan church held a taffy pull Thursday, after which members collected the Easter Sunday services.

By KAY BAHAM

EASTER holidays have just about faded into a dim past and now only pleasant memories remain. The beginning of the last school season for this year will commence Monday.

For students of the South Side Composite unit, however, there is one bright spot on the horizon. Friday, April 25, brings the Athletic banquet to be held in the Normal Practice school cafeteria.

Following this dinner, the last lot of the year will be held in the auditorium and later students will dance in the main gymnasium. This is the last social of the year, and an appeal is sent to all students to "turn out" and support the Students' Union for the year.

Still others are merely enjoying life to the full.

MEMBERS ENJOY MONDAY'S DANCE

Successful dance was held Monday evening at the Masonic Temple. During the evening there were spot dances, a "Bingo" dance, a "Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jones" dance, and many other novelty numbers which added to the enjoyment of the evening.

The tenth annual Edmonton Evening Concert will be held May 1 and 4. Tickets are now available. Delegates from country branches will be provided for these members.

WORSHIP MARKS EASTER SERVICE

Tuesday, Trail Ranger and C.G.I.T. groups attended special Easter morning worship services at First Baptist Church Sunday last. Rev. J. The choir, also supplied by the C.G.I.T. council.

At a meeting following the discussion groups were revealed. Evening prayer was given by Lena Falkenberg and during the evening Miss G. Young made group pictures of the council.

which included Marching of the Colors, and singing of "Taps" followed an afternoon of games and contests.

Bob Ripley Discovers New Genius Believe It Or Not!

George Hill of Timon, Georgia, has been a bed-ridden invalid for most of his life. Since childhood he has suffered from progressive arthritis and for several years has not had the use of either of his arms or legs—yet George Hill is an artist of genius in the most difficult of tasks, that of cutting fragile human silhouettes.

A picture of this remarkable genius and one of the twenty-eight silhouettes he has cut were featured recently in Robert Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" column in The Bulletin.

Ripley calls Hill "The Cheerful Genius." In the last of the great-humored figure which the unfortunate young artist has made against his handicap, he still insists on being a hard worker for his family.

Due to his frail condition, Hill can work at the most about two hours a day. Even this effort requires incredible perseverance, since all his joints are crippled by arthritis and his right arm is completely useless except to hold down the paper on which he is cutting. His work was brought to Ripley's attention by a traveler who brought one of Hill's silhouettes while visiting in Timon.

Annual Dance To Be Staged On April 26

Annual banquet and dance of the International Young People's Board will be held Saturday, April 26 at the Corona hotel, starting at 7:15 p.m. A new slate of officers will be elected.

It is expected that more than 100 young people will be in attendance. As in previous years a permit will be awarded to the society having the largest attendance, and it is probable that competition will be stiff.

Those not attending the banquet will be admitted to the dance for a small charge.

Looking them over

JACK KELLY

JIMMY CHAPMAN'S hopes of going places in the bantam ranks of full-time took a serious set-back last night when Johnny Gaudes gave him a hammering in a bout that might have put him up where he could logically demand a title bout with Kenney Lindsay of Vancouver or Petrin of Toronto, the latter being the early nominee for dominion bantam championship honors.

Chapman has always had an effective left and it didn't let him down last night. His weakness is that his left is just about the only offensive weapon he carries. He is like Eddie Weisbach in that respect. His right just seems to be carried as a spare in case he breaks his whip-like left.

Another weakness that Gaudes uncovered in Chapman is in his mid-section. Jimmy built himself enough there. His trouble is that he is too full for the weight he has to make as a bantam. Most bantams are shorter and far more powerful in the torso and arms than Chapman can ever be at bantam pounds.

It is quite possible that Jimmy's right left might carry him to point victories over a number of top-notch bantams, but such wins would do him any real good. The proper simply doesn't get over seeing a fight won solely by taps from a snaky left hand. They want two-handed action—punching body blows and knockouts. Jimmy has shown signs from time to time but it doesn't look as if he has the technique to do any right handed blasting against top notches.

On the whole last night's fight card was very satisfying. The customers filled out with nothing but prizes for all the bouts. However, Prairie Sports Limited, the sponsoring group, is going to take quite a clout on the bank roll today when it finishes paying off the bills. The attendance was only fair and the program was an expensive one. Preliminary estimates were that the deficit would be several hundred dollars. The attendance was around the 800 mark.

Gaudes was a convincing better all the way. His technique has a finish that is definitely better than anything we have produced around these parts. He leaves for his home in Milwaukee today.

Six Edmonton Futurity Nominees

FUTURITY juvenies are still eligible for this year's renewal of the Winnipeg Juvenile at Polo Park on July 4 according to the revised list released today by the Manitoba Jockey Club.

Edmonton owners have six juvenies on the list. They are Mrs. L. Davidson Stetson (Will Sawyer-Betty Gordon), J. R. Edwards's Valdeh Craig (Craig/Gower-Anabella St), Mrs. T. A. Kelly's Bob Will (Broome-Cumington), Weller & Williams Co., Ltd., Squaw Brown (Broome-Avanti), and Lady Bernice (Craig/Gower-Lopelia Eluvorah), C. Yeandri's Audrey Craig (Craig/Gower-Audrey Y).

Alberta leads all provinces in entries for this $2,000 adult Futurity with no less than 19 animals still eligible.

Vancouver Bantam Feels Dictator Jacobs' Long Arm

VANCOUVER, April 10—(CP)—Vancouver's Kenny Lindsay, a curly-haired brawler with Irish blood in his veins and dynamite in his fists, has emerged somewhere near the top of the bantamweight heap after four years of ring warfare to find himself faced with a new kind of battle—an argument over his exact standing.

Kenny claims he is the holder of the California-Nova World-renowned world bantam crown by right of his 10-round decision over Tony Olivera of San Francisco last night. He says even Olivera agrees to that. But the office of promoter Mike Jacobs in Vancouver says that one Lou Salles in the bantam class.

But Kenny refused to worry about it. He's stated to meet Olivera in a return bout in Vancouver on the end of this month—"An ill bet his again too," he predicts. After that, he says probably the best solution would be "A shot at this guy."

UP TO MANAGER

In any event he's leaving it all up to his general manager, Arnold Berman, of Vancouver's Berman Bros. who has handled Lindsay since one day back in 1937 when a 16-year-old amateur, barely able to make the flyweight poundage, appeared in his office and said "I want to be a fighter."

Lindsay has come a long way on the fight trail since then. He's cleaned up the British Columbia flyweight, the Canadian flyweight, the northwest golden glove events in that class for the next three years. In 1940 he scored perhaps his greatest triumph as a flyweight by selling his way to the lightweight title, which he won against the best third-rate States amateur in the diamond belt, Ed Smith at San Francisco.

He was the only Canadian in the finals that year, and his triumph brought him such recognition that he turned professional shortly after as a bantamweight.

REPUTABLE TOUR

Then came a professional tour which speaks for itself. In eight bouts with top-notch U.S. bantamweights in California last year, Lindsay won four and lost one. He drew three and lost one—the latter to Tony Olivera.

Now at 19 and weighing 116, the diminutive Edmonton-born brawler has only five-fifteen to make a name for himself in the flyweight class. He is still untroubled. But he's worried Berman hell out of it he ever gets into "Because your kid is more than what anything else."

Lindsay says he never sawed in the ring—"I guess that the fish in me"—thinks Joe Louis is a "great fighter" but believes ling finished 71st—and last—on the Kentucky Derby. In the fourth round, he was the only one who took a knock. In the fifth round, Chapman made his last effective stand, keeping away from Gaudes' furious body attacks and spearing him with a long left to the head. Chapman followed in this round, but Gaudes out-threw the aggressor and carrying the fight to the final round.

CHAPMAN DOWN TWICE

The little Milwaukee brawler landed his corner on the sixth round and tore into Chapman with his arms driving like pistons. Chapman was hammered to the floor for a count of three. He gained his feet and fought for time to shake off the punishment he had taken. Gaudes kept trashing him, but Chapman was finally put down by a right hand for another count of nine. Chapman had just got to his feet as he was being counted out.

Although tried by F. B. Kozits, the youngster found his fame far from the valley in which he was foiled. He started his work in Kentucky early last April. After four unsuccessful attempts to win the Kentucky Derby, he was shipped to New England and there started all hands by winning six races in a row, among them the Mile Standish and Mayflower stakes.

To date the Pur has been essentially a speed horse. He never has been asked to go farther than furlongs and there is no reason to believe that he either can or can't. Yet his only weakness seems to be an inability to settle quickly into stride once he is engaged.

GOOD SUPPORTING CAST

The supporting cast produced four bouts billed with roaring action. Mauby Callaghan, the rugged California, was too tough and experienced to be upset by the underdog. He was the six-round winner in a unanimous decision. Wingo put up a game battle though aid made it a fight at 10.

Hard Body Attack Beats Western Canada Champion

By JACK KELLY

Edmonton Bulletin Sports Editor

RUGGED little Johnny Gaudes of Milwaukee hammered his way back to a pinnacle position among Canadian bantamweights when he won a decisive point victory over Jimmy Chapman of Vancouver here last night in their 10-round battle sanctioned by the Western Canada Boxing Federation as for the dominion championship.

Judge Wally Beaumont, M. B. McCall and Referee Jerry Delane gave Gaudes six rounds, Chapman two rounds and called two even.

Gaudes, a compact, tough and lively as a rubber ball, never had any serious trouble with Chapman after the third round. In the fourth Gaudes caught Chapman on the side of the jaw with a short right that stunned him on the canvas where he took a count of nine.

In the fifth round, Chapman made his last effective stand, keeping away from Gaudes' furious body attacks and spearing him with a long left to the head. Chapman followed in this round, but Gaudes out-threw the aggressor and carrying the fight to the final round.

Letters of a Girl-About-Town

Dear MARGARET:

Train whistles, vibrant winds sailing clouds, and all... Spring Fever has finally overtaken your pal. I've been talking to myself for days, and so I might just as well let you know it.

The only consolation at present appears to be that Edmonton is situated on a river too shallow for ocean-going vessels. The boat whistles I am spared... but for the rest, there is a terrific urge to pack my household goods into a red knapsack, slip into a branch of the nearest tree, for carrying the knapsack, slip into my dungarees, and slide out of town for distant lands. It's not that I have a thing against Edmonton... it's just that Spring is the season for a desperately healthy wanderlust. No ambition but to lie in the sun, no hopes but that time will cease, and so it goes.

Spring Fever, Spring flowers, and tralala, and heel! Spring house-cleaning. Already, when I can momentarily ignore the fever, I wonder where the house-cleaning will lead me.

How do you do your spring cleaning, Margaret? Mine is usually two jar con efficiency and the balance unadulterated confusion. I based over the matter for days, and then I decide that there's no profit in that inaction, and so take on the task.

Once started, house-cleaning is just that, for the first five minutes or so, and then I start unearthing all sorts of things stored away since last time things which re-awaken so many old moods and thoughts... and even sheer bewilderment.

A friend of mine going through her possessions came across a portrait, taken years ago, of somebody or other, though no one knows who... bearded, walrus-mustached, wing-collared and all, the man who is Mystery No. 1, is now hanging in her hall-way. Mine friend hopes some day some helpful creature will come along and say "Why, there's Mr. ... I remember when he... She hung up the portrait, and has started a study of her ancestors, and undoubtedly will never finish her house-cleaning.

For myself, I unearth old hats which are splendid jokes, bundles of letters that require time for re-reading, garments that were once obsolete, and are now far from that. Where it all ends is exactly where it all started. I get everything out, look it over, and put it all back, and during the ensuing term (successful maybe that I am), I add innumerable more things to the cache.

The passive requires quite as much energy as does a really good bout of healthy outdoor athletics. Though I'm sure that the nostalgic air overcoming one is much less useful, than the fresh air obtained in the great outdoors.

The weather being Alberta's ideal, people are barging off in all directions, armed with tennis rackets, golf bags and all, and seem to be set for a really healthy spring and summer. It's wonderful the way they do it. For me I prefer the spectator sports role.

And speaking of sports, seen or done, the appropriate clothing for the game, are rapturously lovely, particularly at The BAY. I'm sure that just being garbed in the pretty clothes will improve most people's games. Golfers will automatically stay on the fairway, just because their clothes are at so much better an advantage than when they are in the rough.

And what are you doing with yourself? Affectionately yours, BRENDA

Men Golf in Comfort Now!

Men wear light weight, smooth gabardines and these "new" light weight trousers were designed to literally dot the summer this summer. Comfortably tailored with double pleat front, they're durable and new.

So I want to announce to you that I have found a collection of men's shirts neatly piled on a counter. They were made of cotton flannel, which they tell me is "absolutely" and cool. You can wear them with the tie or casually thrown open at the neck as our golfer here has done. They're called "Prime Fine collar" — and the shirts come in grey, green, blue and black. A shade for every man.

Mrs. W. A. Chambers and Mrs. A. Caywood, members of the C.A.V.U., chatting on the steps of the Prince Rupert club house. Mrs. Chambers is wearing a blue corduroy skirt and blue, yellow and red striped sweater—a nautical blue felt and blue and white crepe soled oxfords. Mrs. Caywood wears a sweater and flannel cloth suit combination and with it, beige crepe soled shoes and a snap-brim blue felt hat. All clothes and accessories from The BAY.

New Style "Mid-Riff" Pyjamas And Gowns Are Smart, Comfortable

Let's pull off our "fired flannels" and think about cool sleeping garb. With fashion and comfort in mind — the mid-riff pyjama and nightgown were born. The top—a jacket that comes just below the bust line and ties in a casual knot in front—and of course wide sleeves and covered back. Just like the polo jackets of our Mexican friends! The bottom is a huge skirt on a band—or large, loose comfy slacks.

Well you can just see how comfortable they are—and cute! In sky-blue delicate pink or white background and lightly sprinkled with dainty flowers.

If you're planning a wedding soon — your wedding set is here.

Soft, dull gleaming satin gown, slip and nightgown. The top of the slip and nightgown have a high waistline, marked by an insertion of lace and the top is banded by lace—and lace straps.

Then for that ever-so-feminine touch sweet little pink and blue rosebuds are daintily placed on the lace. It will just take your breath away.

You're casual in the choice of sleeping garments as well as daytime? A pair of "butterfly" pyjamas with gaily striped tops and solid colored bottoms. They're the kind that you can wander around the house in or wear tucked into bed.

McCall Meal Planner Suggests New Menus For Every Month

Whether you're the "dash hither and yon" type, who has difficulty getting organized, or whether you're an astute planner of your days and ways, you'll give a hearty cheer for The BAY's "Meal Planner." It's a cinch for giving you lovely ideas for your three meals a day... and your special events when friends are coming in, for dinner or tea.

And, too, it's a winner for giving sound ideas about the old bugaboo of "left-overs." The "Meal Planner" is a special and free contribution to the housewife, available in the lower floor Food Department of The BAY, which provides it through an exclusive arrangement with McCall's Magazine.

So, next time you're shopping in the Food Department of The BAY, and that's bound to be soon, be sure to pick up your copy of the Meal Planner, and do your rejoicing when you find what a handy thing it is. It's free!

"White Cliffs" And "Out Of The Night" — Outstanding New Books

Book shelves have always been the stars — they bring covers, winking and blinking away, suggest promising the excitement and adventure of the unknown.

Such a promise was held out by these ever-watching shelves at The BAY, and the first "winking star" was a story of timely interest.

"Out of the Night" — is a story of the life of the author — Joe Vaino. A story of a man's life between two wars. Caught in the flow of intrigue and danger, he became a conspirator of major calibre when Hitler's shadow fell across Europe. He fell in love with a lovely girl called Firella — a gifted painter who gave up her work to fight at her husband's side.

Rich attacked by the Gestapo, they were thrown in concentration camps. Vaino escaped through airforce and deception. His wife perished in a Nan prison.

That's the story of the book that's taking the book-lover to a new world of the "Night."

"The White Cliffs" — by Miss Dyer Miller is a genuine case of England today and the English spirit as seen through American eyes.

A lovely American girl married an Englishman — to love him in the first great war.

She and her indomitable mother-in-law find themselves facing the new peril of this war — and now her son, fighting for England.

It's a story that will leave you with food for thought for a long time to come.

And now on a lighter note — "Green Fingers" by Reginald Arkell — quite and tip for good gardeners. Again verse — this time a sparkling collection about gardeners — one of the most readable books you've ever seen in long time — with a wit often edged and a gaiety always spontaneous. It tells of the idiosyncrasies of those who love to dig and derive and plant and place.

And so for now, happy reading — more of books soon!
